Ben 10/Generator Rex: Heroes United is an extended Generator Rex crossover with a guest appearance by Ben Tennyson from Ben 10: Ultimate Alien. It debuted on November 25, 2011. It's also a two-century episode and the 10th and 11th episodes of Season 3 of Generator Rex. The contents of The Show review Rex teams up with an alternative superhero, Ben Tennyson, to save Earth from the deadly Alpha Nanite, who entered New York through a swirling whirlwind, just as Ben arrived in town. The Measuring Fault site in midtown Manhattan. Hanging over the city of New York, begins to form a mysterious dimensional fault and superimposed sporadic shocks, able to sufficiently destroy skyscrapers. Providence flies to explore to get a close look and at the Black Knight sign, Keep shoots its main battery (a large energy weapon hidden in the entire front half of a floating fortress) right on the portal as an attempt to close it. Across her screen, the Black Knight asks Caesar what exactly this dimensional rift is, but even Caesar replies that he has no idea. Before she can hear more, The White Knight takes over her screen and demands that she let her agents help them. Rex comes up with his own theme song, defending himself. Then, right after Rex finishes his song, Six beats him. He admits it's catchy, but warns that anything he cares about can disappear. Interrupting their session, Dr. Holiday informs them of the situation in New York. Fast, Rex, Bobo and Six arrive at the scene, and Rex flies in close proximity to the fault, trying to destroy it. Suddenly Ben, as Humungousaur falls off him and, mistaking Rex for a foreigner, blows him hard into the pond. After another creature dries out of the rift, Rex tells Six that he will take care of Ben (Rex thinks Ben is an EVO), while six must go after another unsolicited guest. With Ben transformed into Diamondhead, two swords battle across the pond and onto the Brooklyn Bridge, then, with Ben as Lodestar, take up their fight all the way to the city. They accidentally knock a giant sign over the building that nearly kills a group of New York citizens until Rath rescues them, leading to Rex realizing that he's not exactly a bad guy. However, that doesn't stop Rex from stomping on him and putting him down long enough to cure him of his nanites just for treatment not to work, not because he's incurable, but because he's not EVO. No one seems to know who Ben is, so he returns to his human form in the hope of clearing their memory. However, it doesn't work, only getting blank looks when Ben claims to be the biggest hero in the world. Ben Tennyson is being held in the Providence Defect Group. Rex notices the Six in the middle of a struggle with another creature. Six myself to cripple the enemy by knocking himself unconscious by the affair final blow. Rex returns with a six in a coma to the base. White reveals that the creature radiated some energy before it exploded, and orders Rex to find it. Ben, being detained in a tube, offers to help, but Rex is angry at Ben and accuses him of being the Six. Fast, Ben escapes from the base like Big Chill while Rex chases him, along with a trail of red mist. Both end up where Bellwood should be, revealing that Mr. Smoothy is being replaced by a Bob Biscuit shed and confirming Ben's speculation about being in another universe. Hearing how the realization affects Ben, Rex and he come to a truce. They then encounter Caesar, who seemingly represents a weapon aimed at them until Diamondhead deflects his energy and destroys the device. However, Caesar claims that he meant to target the creature behind them in his ghostly form, which he shows to be Alpha Nanite and the same creature that the six knocked unconscious. Alpha asks Caesar's help to get a stable and solid physical shape, but Caesar refuses and runs away to his mobile lab. He also explains to Rex and Ben that he created Alpha to control other nanites as a reasonable being during the original Nanite project, but his pure form of nanite was unstable, instead trying to make a mechanical body, and when it did not attempt to take an organic body. So Caesar was forced to send Alpha into a parallel dimension, Null Void, assuming it was an empty space. However, Ben points out that Null Void is actually an inter-man prison dimension, so Alpha had many bodies. Alpha tries to merge with Rex, but fails. The two start the plant where Alpha arrives to try to absorb the EVOs' nanites as well as Rex Omega-1 Nanite. After Dr. Holiday, Rex and Ben drive him away, Rex and Ben play basketball, bond as they show their backgrounds and life stories. Interrupting his game, White Knight calls them to let them know that Alpha is in Bug Jar. As they both go, they pick up the wrong jackets, causing Rex to mention how it feels tight and Ben to ask why it smells like bananas. Bobo objects that if they are their only hope, the world is doomed. When the White Knight, Ben and Rex arrive in Bug Jar, Alpha has already absorbed the entire Nani population of Bug Jar and develops a stronger form. Grabbing rex, Alpha stops Ben as Diamondhead, from intervening by hacking Ultimatrix to turn him back into a man. He continues to deplete Rex of his nanites until Omega prevents him from doing so further. However, Alpha absorbs some of Ultimatrix's power, turning into forms Heatblast, four hands, and Humungosaur. Rex tries to hold him back, while Ben continues to try to activate his watch. Eventually succeeding, he turns into a new alien named Shocksquatch and manages to stun Alpha temporarily, but quickly returns to his old self. Rex contains Alpha, communicating with his nanites. The White Knight holds Alpha for a while until Rex disables his copy of Ultimatrix. However, Alpha will take away The Omega Nanite Rex and transform into an even stronger shape, absorbing the ruins of structures to increase its nanites. While Rex loses some hope with his Omega builds gone, Ben manages to come up with a solution. Turning into an update, Ben merges with Rex to improve his build and the two heroes rush to fight Alpha. Despite the fact that Alpha manages to cut it, he restores the limbs and does not depend on their attempts. In the last-minute plan, Rex summons his Slam Cannon, using Ben as Cannonbolt as his ammo, and directed directly at Omega Nanite with his extended glasses. They manage to damage the shape of Alpha long enough for Rex to condense Alpha into a super dense ball when Caesar arrives, extracting Rex's Omega Nanite just in time. Caesar opens up another split in Null Void, prompting Ben to contain Alpha as Upchak and return to Null Void on his way back to his world, albeit weirding out Rex at the same time. Caesar introduces Rex to his Omega-1 Nanite. Returning to the base, Rex tries to visit the Six, although Bobo and Dr. Holiday notify him that he is all right. Relieved, Rex tries to hide his happiness when the six arrives, but then continues to hug him. Rex hopes to see Ben again, but Dr. Holiday is quick to point out that, with endless timing in the multiverse, works in a version of Ben who knows him almost impossible. Six, however, believes that some encounters are destined to happen, and assures Rex that he can still see Ben again until Caesar appears, bypassing their security system. Caesar then re-injects Omega Nanite into Rex's blood, assuring him that it is not Alpha. Meanwhile, swirling in Null Void, Alpha somehow glows and manages to crack its compact shell. Starring Bugs When Ben and Rex were on the building, Lodestar's mouth was open when the billboard began to fall. When Ben morphed into an update, there was no Ultimatrix symbol at all, but when the Update merged with Rex, the Ultimatrix character appeared. As Rex holds the unconscious Six in his arms, Six doesn't have his shades, but in the next scene they are present on his face. When Ben talks about his aliens, in a photo of aliens, one of Ripjau's eyes is purple, while the other is green. When Ben turns into an update, the Ultimatrix symbol is not on his chest. For some reason, when Ben and Rex separated after the merger Rex was not wearing a Trivia Lake jacket that resembles the shape of Ultimatrix. This crossover is part of the Regular Generator Rex production cycle. At the beginning of the episode, when Keep enters the scene, the neon light EVO Guys is present on the billboard on one Buildings. The towns of Rex and Ben are called Bellwood, Bellwood, these are different cities. During a workout with Six, Rex tries to come up with a song for himself. The melody he came up with resembles the original song Ben 10. Rex also cuts Generator Rex in the title show on Gen Rex. Ben and his alien colleagues are animated in the style of generator rex and animation. The episode takes about 43 minutes 54 seconds. Ben's team, his cousin Gwen Tennyson and Kevin Levine, do not appear in this special, although they mention Ben Rex as the people he cares about along with Grandpa Max. They are shown in a group shot of four plumbers as Ben explains his Land. Ben transforms into a new alien, Shocksquatch, which was first shown as a TKO robot. Ben's memoirs as a 10-year-old child are seen and mentioned, in particular, the scene where Ben gets the first Omnitrix. The lake where Rex is thrown Humungousaur resembles the symbol Ultimatrix. When Ben says his name to Rex, the song Ben 10: Ultimate Alien is heard. In his own series, Ben almost always shouts the name of the alien he has just turned into, and uses the ability of Ultimatrix to develop aliens to their finite forms that are stronger and more focused on fighting than their original forms. He doesn't do any in this crossover. This episode made it to the top 100 on iTunes. Each fight between Ben and Rex and Alpha ended with Ben using an alien from the original series. It is interesting to note that the episode in which Rex meets Ben is the 10th in the season, since Number 10 is the main arc number for Ben.
